

For Immediate Release: April 17, 2008

Press Contact: Donna Lee Gennaro, Director of Marketing
Marketing@perishable.org 401.331.2695 ext.103

“The Adventures of Fat Nancy & Crisco” continues at Perishable Theatre’s Blood from a Turnip Late Night Puppet Salon

Providence, RI: Perishable Theatre, Rhode Island’s Research and Development Theatre, presents Blood from a Turnip, Rhode Island’s oldest late night puppet salon! Enjoy the salon that has lasted longer than some marriages.

Friday May 16, 2008 at 10 p.m.
SEATS STILL $5, after all these years.

BfaT, as the salon is called by its die-hard patrons, is the brainchild of Vanessa Gilbert, and Jeremy Woodward. Since the day Blood from a Turnip began in February of 1997, BfaT has offered professional puppeteers and those new to the art form an opportunity to present big stories, in miniature. Co-curated by Gilbert, and Boston-based, electronic puppeteer Evan O’Television BFaT continues to redefine itself, but refuses to grow up.

Perishable Theatre’s - The May edition of Blood From a Turnip will feature:

- Ergot Players from New Bedford-The Ergot players are guerilla theater, manic, tense, and at all times curious.
- Chloe Paisley from Brown University-Watch Chloe create a puppet show out of mid-air.
- And the latest installment of The Adventures of Fat Nancy & Crisco- Fat Nancy & Crisco audition for a Musical!
- Charming and personable musical interludes provided by:Lindsay Adler, Multi-instrumentalist/Vocalist/Composer, well known for her children's performances as "Mother Nature." Come and fool with "Mother Nature" in this adult-children's version!

What- Blood from a Turnip, RI’s only late night puppet salon

When- Friday May 16, 2008 at 10pm

Where- Perishable Theatre, 95 Empire Street, Downtown Providence

Cost: $5, NO reservations taken

www.perishable.org

#

Perishable Theatre, 95 Empire Street, Providence, RI 02903
www.perishable.org